

ATTACK THEATRE

15th Anniversary Season

Attack Theatre celebrates its 15th anniversary season by commissioning four artists to interpret the classic photo of Peter and Michele taken in St. John, U.S. Virgin Islands, in 1996 by Cylla von Tiedemann. (Ian Green, Dot Your Tees and Cross Your Eyes, mixed media, 2010)

Holiday Unwrapped

We're home for the holidays with the public premiere of Holiday Unwrapped. This dance performance features Attack Theatre's rambunctious physicality and theatrical wit, set to the sounds of classical, jazz, and klezmer music, all wrapped around interactive games and movement adventures for kids and adults before and after the show. In Holiday Unwrapped, the frenetic season becomes a fantastical journey where socks become ice skates, empty packages become turntables, and the dinner table has a life of its own—all with the message that it's better to dance with the box on your head than to fret over what's inside.

A dance adventure for the kid in all of us.
